Accessible Information – guidance

At the point of contact or initial referral, staff are now legally required to ask and record, if the person has any information or communication needs relating to a disability, impairment or sensory loss. This also includes asking if the carer/parent have any communication need as well. Please note the current legislation does not cover foreign languages, but it is good practice to record these to ensure the person gets the right support.

The information now required about communication needs comes under the Accessible Information Standard (Legislation SCCI 1605). Providing accessible information and asking these questions enables people to be better informed in decisions around their care and support and typically increases engagement and confidence in working with the Council.

At this time, Mosaic does not have a specific area for recording communication needs; therefore, we have put together brief guidance on how and where information should be recorded.

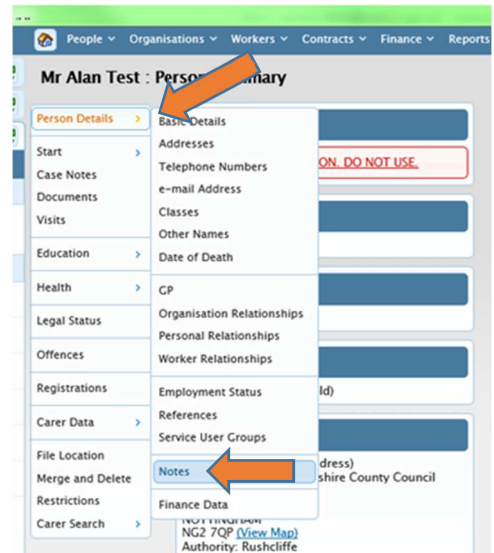

For existing service users, questions about communication needs can be asked and recorded over the next year as part of their review or when a worker is next in contact with the person.

These questions should only be asked just once and then recorded on Mosaic using the following guidance. Information can be checked if it is still correct at the point of reviews.

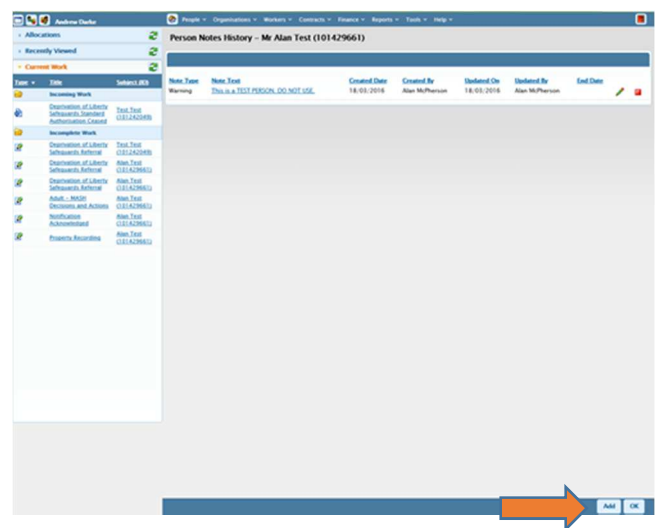

Questions to ask and information to record:

- How do you communicate? (e.g. BSL, deafblind alphabet, Makaton, verbally)
- Do you use anything to help with communication? (e.g. communication devices, hearing aids)
- How do you need information presented to you? (e.g. braille, easy read, verbally)
- What is the best way to contact you? (e.g. family members, email, telephone, letter)
- Do you give permission to have this recorded on our system and shared with other organisations as part of any referrals? (e.g. education, health colleagues)

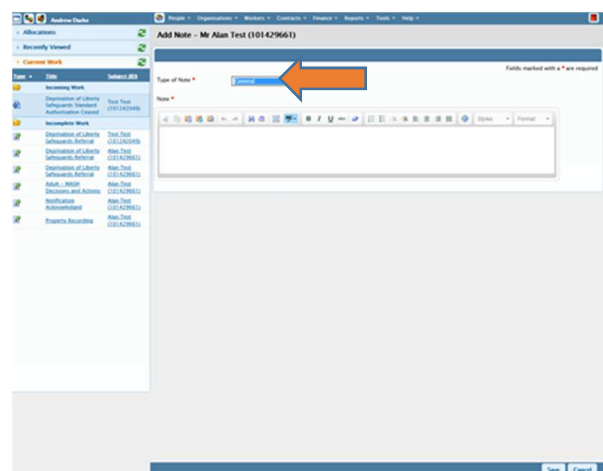

1. On Mosaic this needs to be recorded under General Notes
2. Select Person details on the person summary screen
3. Click Notes

4. Add to Notes Section

5. Select General as the type of note

6. Write down in the required information about communication needs and support.

The screenshot shows the 'Add Note' form in the Andorra DASH system. The form is titled 'Add Note - Mr Alan Test (101429661)'. It has a 'Type of Note' dropdown set to 'General'. The main text area contains the placeholder text 'This is a test of what needs to be input'. An orange arrow points to the text area.

7. Click Save.

The screenshot shows the 'Add Note' form in the Andorra DASH system, showing the 'Save' button. An orange arrow points to the 'Save' button.

8. Information should then be visible in the notes section of the person summary page.

The screenshot shows the 'Person Summary' page in the Andorra DASH system. The 'Notes' section is visible, showing the note added in the previous steps. An orange arrow points to the 'Notes' section.
