
Maximising Independence Service (MIS)

What is the Maximising Independence Service?

The Maximising Independence Service (MIS) is a service area in Adult Social Care (ASC) that is focused on early intervention, prevention and promoting independence to support people with their overall wellbeing.

The aim of the service is to help people become more confident in daily living skills. This can include providing information, advice, guidance, and short-term services, that provide strengths-based support to identify and achieve short-term goals to help maximise independence.

Our objectives

- deliver a strengths-based and therapy-led approach to increase independence and confidence in daily living
- ensure people have access to the right information and support, at the right time
- provide services which focus on early intervention that delay or reduce ongoing care and support needs, and enhance overall wellbeing
- support timely hospital discharges and avoid, or reduce, the risk of readmission by enabling safe transitions back home
- deliver an efficient, effective and timely service with minimal hand-offs between teams and professionals.

Connecting to the MIS

People already known to social care

If a person contacts the council and is already known to Adult Social Care, the Customer Service Centre will allocate the query or concern directly to the involved team. If the allocated worker thinks the person would benefit from any of the above services or support, they can complete an internal referral.

People not already known to social care

If a person is new to Adult Social Care, a worker from the MIS will be allocated to understand what the person would like to achieve and identify what advice, guidance, and services, are most appropriate to support them to achieve their goals.
